

THE PACER

Vol. IV, No. 16

Published Weekly at The University of Tennessee at Martin

Thursday Afternoon, February 27, 1975

Eight Pages

Hell no!!

In one of their continuing battles of the sexes, Tony Isbell as George and Connie Robinson as Martha rehearse for tonight's opening performance of Vanguard Theatre's version of

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" The play will run through Saturday with curtain rising at 7:30 p.m. each evening in the Fine Arts Auditorium.

'Virginia Woolf' begins Vanguard season tonight

By KAREN FRANKLIN

Pacer Asst. News Editor

Tickets sales are going well for Vanguard's major Winter production, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?," but some desirable seats are still left for all three nights, according to Daniel DePriest, a Vanguard ticket salesman.

Tickets for Friday night's performance are going faster than the other two nights, DePriest said.

"We may open the balcony if most of the seats sell out," he said.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" was Edward Albee's first full length play and was his first phenomenally successful Broadway production. Connie Robinson who will play Martha in the play, said. It was released as a full-length film starring Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor in 1966.

"Themes Albee dramatizes in most all of his plays are found in this one as well," Ms. Robinson said. "Complicity about human suffering, the destructive passion to dominate, loneliness and the difficulties of communications."

"Albee's distinctive contributions are abrasive dialogue, bitterly witty comedy and the remarkably skillful use of one of drama's most fundamental elements, the battle of the wits," Ms. Robinson said.

The play will be directed by William Snyder and the cast will include Tony Isbell as George, Lynn Black as Nick, Sue Akin as Honey and Ms. Robinson.

"Newsweek" hailed the play as "...a brilliantly original work of art - an ex-coriating theatrical experience, surging with shocks of recognition and dramatic fire."

"The cast has worked very hard and I think they came a long way in a short time with such a hard script," Ms. Robinson said.

Tickets for the play are available at the Vanguard box office in the Fine Arts Auditorium from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. today through Saturday and in the University Center from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 4:30 to 8 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling the box office at 7536. Tickets not picked up by 7 p.m. on the play nights will be sold. If any tickets are available they will be sold at the door.

Meetings scheduled for state educators

Education officials from across the state will converge on UTM this weekend as administrative meetings will be held on campus Thursday and Friday.

UT President Dr. Edward J. Boling and other top UT officials will be on campus Thursday for Boling's quarterly systems to campus visit. Provost Jimmy Trentham said he did not know the exact nature of the discussions to be conducted with Boling, but he suspected they would probably be budgetary.

There will be a group session with Boling and his aides involving UTM administrators and campus leaders from 2:30 p.m., Trentham said. The rest of the visit will be taken up in individual conferences.

Friday the Tennessee Higher Education Commission will conduct its quarterly meeting on campus.

According to Trentham, this meeting will be concerned with such areas as approval of new programs and could deal with some budgetary questions.

Trentham said THEC would consider changing the name of UTM's Law Enforcement program to Criminal Justice, which was approved last week by the UT Board of Trustees.

This will be the first time a THEC meeting of this sort has been held on campus, Trentham said.

"UTM just invited them and so they came," Trentham said. This gives them an opportunity to see our campus. These people have a very big influence over us. According to Trentham, presidents and chancellors from across the state will be on hand for the meeting.

"The THEC is made up of lay people and not educational people," Trentham said.

Trend transitions blamed

By JERALD OGG
Special Assignments Editor
Changes in educational trends are the primary reasons that some departments at UTM are not funded at the level recommended by the Tennessee Higher Education Commission, according to Provost Jimmy Trentham.

UTM is able to distribute whatever funds it receives for its operating budget in whatever way it wishes, but some departments are currently receiving more than the formula generates and some less.

"We do have inequities and we recognize these," Trentham said. "We are trying to eliminate them, but this is difficult in times where there is little money. All new money we receive now goes for salaries."

Trentham cited engineering as one area which is currently over-staffed, but attributed it to the decline in the number of engineering students in recent years. The present faculty was hired during a time when engineering was more popular, but mass faculty changes are not feasible from trend to trend.

"We don't want to let faculty go with every change in trends," he said. "If I were in industry and were operating a plant and one product decreased 50 per cent in sales, I could increase production in another plant. I would be firing people in one place, but I would be hiring in another."

"We just don't do things like that at the university level, though," he continued. "We've taken the position that we would rather overstaff in some areas than hurt morale with the threat of terminating. Morale is very important."

Psychology, agriculture and business are among those who are currently understaffed, according to Trentham, with engineering and some liberal arts departments among those overstaffed. Only when there is a staff turnover, or more money becomes available, can the situation be remedied.

"Until we get more money there's not much we can do," Trentham explained. "If there's no money to give them, we just can't give it."

Dr. Norman Campbell, vice-chancellor for academic affairs, agreed with Trentham the faculty should be protected as much as possible from changing trends.

"These are professional people who have spent years in college," Campbell stated. "Almost all of those who are doctors have spent eight or nine years in college, and you just don't cut them when there are changes in these trends."

Campbell said that everything possible is being done to help alleviate the problem.

"What we try to do, if our enrollment stays up, is adjust move him where he is needed instead of hiring someone.

Campbell cited English instructor Robert Sugg and university for the Office of Development, while Sieber will take over as assistant director of conferences and institutes in April.

Campbell also predicted the current economic woes will slow the development of new programs.

"Any new program will be slow in coming," he said. "If new ones do come it won't be big expensive ones, but remodeling of old ones."

Wilbur Washburn, assistant dean of the school of business administration, admitted his school is understaffed, but praised their present faculty and students for adjusting to it.

"One of the things it has caused is large classes and the faculty are required to teach more different courses than they need to," he said. "We have real co-operation within the faculty, though, and the students have taken the large classes very well."

"We have attempted to maintain high standards even with the shortage of faculty," he continued. "It's taken some effort to do this, but I don't think it has hurt us that much."

The school currently needs a faculty member in finance, but Washburn said the problem has been averted through switching faculty around.

(See page 6, col. 7)

Dollar dilemma Third in a series

the best we can," he said. "If a teacher is not needed in one area, and is capable of filling a position in another area, we history instructor Stan Sieber as examples of this. Sugg is currently conducting an efficiency study of the

SGA spending explained as budget hearings begin

By JIM KEMP

Pacer News Editor

Speaking at the first of a series of budgetary hearings, SGA President Mike Faulk told Congress Tuesday students have had to bear higher entertainment prices this year than in previous years.

Faulk explained the workings of the SGA budget extensively to Congress which is currently conducting hearings into the fiscal operations of all campus organizations funded with student activities fees.

Faulk said one of the things plaguing this year's administration is the $3,000 deficit left because of the Herron administration accounting error.

"We really had to burn the students on entertainment this year because of the deficit," Faulk said.

A committee composed of Congresspersons recommended the SGA be separated from entertainment and a separate entertainment board be created. The committee also recommended the SGA budget be cut from $13,000 to $10,000 and the entertainment board be funded at $16,800. Entertainment is currently included in the $13,000 budgeted for this year.

The committee also recommended the budget of Vanguard Theatre, The Spirit and The Pacer be cut and the resulting funds be used as part of the $16,800 entertainment fund.

Faulk presented two alternate proposals at the Congress meeting. The first

Staff photo by Gary Richardson

Faulk addresses Congress

called for the entertainment board to be budgeted at $16,300, with SGA budgeted at $10,000. The second calls for the entertainment board to receive $12,000, with SGA getting $8000. Both proposals call for cuts in the budgets of The Pacer, Vanguard and The Spirit.

Faulk's proposals also call for at least $1000 to be budgeted to WUTM-FM. The committee's proposal states that due to the uncertain situation the station is currently in, no recommendation will be made at this time. The station currently does not receive any funding from these fees, but is budgeted through academic funds.

"WUTM is a white elephant right now because of its uncertain status," Bill Nance, congressional investigation committee chairman, said. "This doesn't mean they don't deserve funding."

Faulk also released a statement to Congress entitled "Why an Entertainment Board," in which he stated why he felt there was a need for such a board.

The statement compares the entertainment expenditures of the 1973-74 administration to the current administration and claims the current administration has lowered the subsidy cost of entertainment per student.

"If an entertainment board is formed and properly financed it can be the greatest recruiting device UTM has ever had," the statement

(See page 4, col. 6)

Fall theft figures reflect rise

By PATTELMORE

Pacer Copy Editor

Comparable thefts on campus rose from $4237 in fall 1973 to $5828.20 last quarter, according to Sgt. Steve Jahr of Safety and Security.

The reported campus thefts for fall 1973 actually totaled $7724.55, Jahr said but the figure is deceptive since three vehicles valued at over $3000 were stolen in 1973 and no comparable items were stolen last quarter.

"These couple of car thefts throw the whole total out of balance," Ted Council, assistant director of Safety and Security, said. "This changes the 1973 figure by about $3000."

Dorm thefts rose from $1060 in 1973 to $1122.60 last quarter, Council said. In 1973, $2430.00 worth of property was recovered, $1800.00 of which was two of the vehicles-while $1492.00 was recovered last quarter.

Jahr also said the number of police reports written went down from 265 to 167. He attributed much of the decrease to changing University rules.

"The nature of activity on campus determines the amount of reports Safety and Security fills out," Jahr said. "The nature of the complaints we are filling out this year has changed since last year. Much of what was once written up as police reports are now logged into the daily activity reports and complaint reports."

Another possible answer to the decrease in police reports is that head residents are handling more of the dorm related problems rather than calling Safety and Security, Jahr suggested.

"Campus figures show thefts are higher in some areas, especially in theft of property," Jahr said. "The theft in the residence halls is up some. Theft from faculty and staff is up."

Items stolen on campus this quarter and not recovered include a set of Mag wheels valued at $120, a cash box containing a gold ring and watchband taken from G-H residence hall valued at $180 and a leather coat valued at $150.

"We also lost a bunch of car batteries," Council said. "They've been taken from all lots on campus. When the weather is cold, this usually hits up- people with weak batteries will list one out of another car."

"The chance for recovery on items of this nature is probably slim," Council continued. "It's hard to identify things without serial numbers. With the Mag wheels, we can check numbers on the tires of all similar wheels."

their tires and stereo sets gone.

"I don't know any single factor for the decrease," Council said. "These things run in cycles. At one time it was the thing to have a tape player in the car and that's when we had all the thefts."

According to Council, the $703.35 taken in auto-related incidents was a decrease compared to past years.

"The amount taken used to be staggering," Council said. "That much could be taken in one day. At times we'd find cars setting up on blocks with lines. He recalled two separate arrests two years ago in which approximately $4000 worth of car and electronic equipment was recovered.

"These people were really in the business of stripping cars and sacking rooms," Council said.

The majority of crimes now are dorm-related, Council said.

"A lot of these thefts take place when someone just goes down the hall for 30 minutes and leaves the room door open," he said. "The student leaves his wallet on the dresser or on the bed in plain view."

"Girls have the habit of opening the door, throwing their purse on the bed and rushing down the hall to talk with friends," he continued. "Someone walking along the hall looks in, sees the purse and takes it. Girls will just have to take some time to put the purse in a drawer and close the door."

Council offered two precautions against theft.

"First, don't leave tapes or any valuables laying in the car seat or out where people can see them," he said. "Put valuables under the seat or better, lock them in the trunk."

"Second, watch out for the

(See page 3, col. 3)

Check it out

Study indicates percentage of tenured faculty will continue to grow... page 3.

SGA receives contract for "Charlie Daniels Band." Concert slated for March 9... page 6.

Phi Sig Follies draw capacity crowd to comedy and Vaudeville acts... page 8.

Staff photo by Denny Wilson

Building Frosty

After the sun of South America, two Venezuelan students engage in a rare opportunity-snowman building. Louis Sandoval, left, and Arturo Pinzon pat down the flakes in classic style after Monday afternoon's sudden snow burst.

Entertainment problems reflect defeatist attitude

Big name concert entertainment has been almost non-existent here this year, at least partially due to the defeatist attitude of many SGA officers.

SGA seems to have taken the approach that small colleges cannot have good concerts and have used this philosophy to justify the problems that have occurred this year. This thinking started on a small scale at the beginning of the year and grew stronger as time passed.

Last quarter's concerts were not up to par with previous years and it has gotten progressively worse this quarter. Several concerts have been scheduled this year that, for one reason or another, never materialized.

Most recently the "New Riders of the Purple Sage" concert was cancelled just a week before the scheduled performance. Now Charlie Daniels has been set for March 9 and it can only be hoped that promoters don't back out on this one.

This past year's record attests to the problems of booking good concerts. SGA officers seem to believe it's an impossibility to have top quality entertainment -- at least on a break-even basis. But is it really that far out of reach? Should all the blame be placed on UTM's size?

Last spring during election campaigns, both SGA President Mike Faulk and Vice-President Art Swann claimed it was possible to get big name groups here. But now they have undoubtedly changed their minds. Afraid to take a chance on a good group, SGA has relied on promoters to take this risk. While promoter concerts are fine, few promoters are willing to take the gamble and concerts have been almost nil.

One must wonder if Faulk and Swann are afraid to take a chance with SGA money or if they are simply afraid of their own judgments. Some of the decisions that have been made have resulted in low student turnout and losses in money. Such was the case with the Allan Rich concert this quarter. SGA officers have chosen to place all the blame on apathetic students, UTM's small size and no community support.

Although these are major factors, one can't simply overlook the possibility that it was the decision making process that was at fault. SGA has chosen to limit itself in its concerts beyond the natural limitations placed on this size campus. Faulk was right this week when he said the students have been "burned" this year in entertainment. His reasoning is there is not enough money budgeted and he has proposed a separate $16,000 entertainment budget for next year.

The real question is whether the present money has been used wisely. Believing so strongly in the impossibility of the situation, Faulk and Swann have made entertainment suffer more than is necessary.

Finding quality entertainment at a reasonable price is a difficult job. No one said it would be easy. But with the attitude that bad entertainment is inevitable with the present budget, concerts have had to endure more problems than they should.

BA language reduction plan offers change for the better

A long overdue change in the foreign language requirement for the Liberal Arts BA degree is now being considered.

At its next meeting, the Liberal Arts Curriculum Committee will be asked to accept a proposal that would decrease the requirement from three to two years. This will be a major step for the University and will place it much more in line with other colleges across the country. The majority of universities no longer have that extra year of foreign language that so often discourages students from getting a BA degree when they actually had rather have it.

A reduction in the language requirement has been talked about for years, but many instructors contended such a change would lower the quality of the degree. The concern is understandable, but the argument has no real basis.

To the contrary of what many people have said, the change may really mean a higher quality degree. While the third year of a foreign language is essential for many students who plan to go to graduate school, it should not be required of everyone trying to get a BA degree.

The Ad Hoc committee making the proposal has worked long and hard to come up with a recommendation that everyone is willing to accept. Besides the positive vote on the reduction, they also have unanimously agreed on the type of program to replace those nine hours.

The committee has suggested the extra hours be taken in a variety of humanistic oriented courses offered by all the different departments and divisions in Liberal Arts. Each discipline would choose a beneficial three-hour course. Students would then be able to choose three of these courses from a selection of more than a dozen offerings, leaving the student very free in his possibilities.

The change seems to be a very good one and should make the BA degree much more enticing for students. The University is behind times in its present requirements, but can go a long way toward catching up if this change is put into effect.

Success of Phi Sig Follies offers potential for others

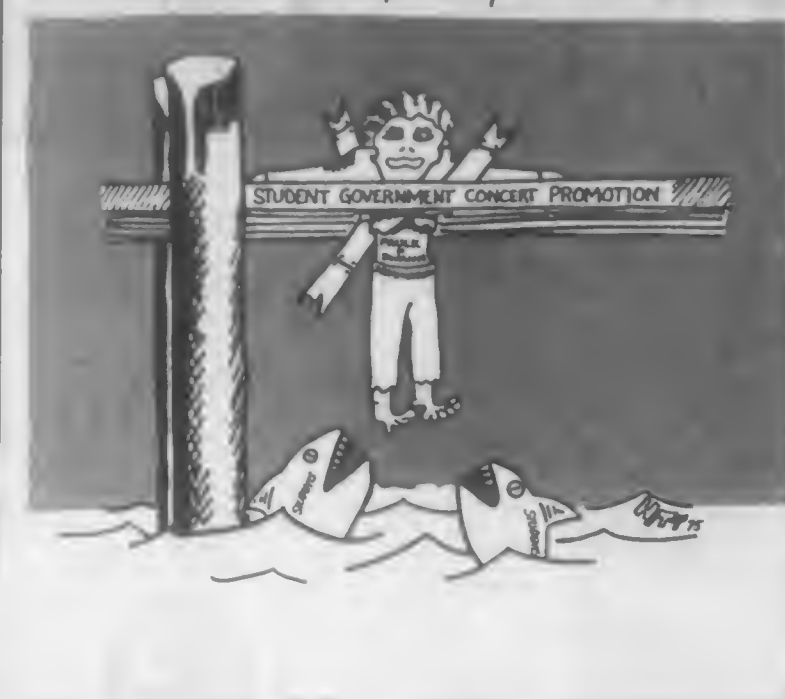

In only its second year, the Phi Sig Follies has developed into a major entertainment production as well as a worthwhile fund raising event for the Heart Fund.

The University Center Ballroom was packed for Tuesday night's show with people literally standing outside the door to watch. The comedy and Vaudeville type acts showed a great deal of work and the screening process used this year made sure all the acts were suitable for the show.

Although the program was fairly lengthy, the show was well organized and demonstrated how much time and effort must have been spent. In addition to entertaining the large number of students, Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity raised $350 for the Heart Fund, a worthy charity.

Other clubs, organizations, dorms and SGA should take a lesson from the job done with the Follies and consider the potential for their own groups.

THE BREAK IN A PLATFORM OF ENTERTAINMENT!

Swann's down

The ballad of Lynard Skynny

by ART SWANN

"Good morning Hit and Miss Concerts, Miss Hit speaking."
"Hold the line please."
"Mr. Off Mart Duck is on the line, Calling from the University of Tennessee."
"How ya doin' man?! How are things in Knoxville?"
"You're calling from where?"
"What state is Martin in?"
"Hold the line please. Miss Hit!"
"Get me a map of Tennessee."
"Here it is Mr. Off."
"Find Martin."
"I think we'll need a microscope."
"Mr. Duck?"

"We can't seem to locate your city."
"Isn't the University of Tennessee at Knoxville?"
"I see. And you are interested in Lynard Skynny?"
"What is your seating capacity?"
"I thought Stokely Center had 13,000 seats?"
"Oh yea, you're not in Knoxville."
"Is there any way you could get 10,000 more seats in there?"
"I see. How about Blue Swade. I've got a real deal on them for $8,000?"
"I'll tell you what. I'll even throw in sound and lights free."

"What do you mean? They had a hit in 1970. It was even in the top 20."
"I see. Well, will your airport accommodate his 747?"
"I see. How much can you guarantee Lynard?"
"O.K. that will take care of his sound and lights. How about his guarantee?"
"You expect him to play in Martin for exposure?"
"Well, what major city are you close to?"
"One hundred and thirty miles!"
"I see. I'll tell you what. Let me sell you The Pearl Hugg Revue. They are really hot now for only $9,000."

"You say you had them last year. Well they really ought to sell this time."
"You lost how much?"
"I see. I don't think Lynard could get there from here."
"What was your name again?"
"Goose, Swan? Oh yea, Mr. Duck. Let me put you on hold."
"Miss Hit?"
"Disconnect this man accidentally, please."
Click.
"Good Morning. Office of Mr. Rip U. Off Hit and Miss Attractions."

FEEDBACK

McManus is apathy victim

To the Editor:

In answer to Mr. McManus' heart-breaking letter, I would like to challenge many of his statements. I am a third quarter sophomore and have enjoyed the entire stay.

Mr. McManus, the reason you have to sit in your dorm room on Friday and Saturday nights is not Mike Faulk's fault. The reason is you have a dreaded contagious disease that many people on this campus have--apathy.

I would like to know why you think it is all Mike Faulk's fault. Is SGA supposed to get you dates, get you into organizations and, in so many words, get you involved? Hell No! SGA is to offer help to the students, not do it for them.

First, there are more people to blame than Mr. Faulk, if you blame SGA. There is a cabinet of about ten, plus Congresspersons. I don't see how in the world you can just blame Mr. Faulk.

Mr. McManus, did you ever try to get involved in any of the organizations on campus? Have you ever been in the SGA office? I am sitting here looking in my '73-74 school catalog on pages 68-75. There are close to one hundred organizations listed that you could be active in.

Surely there is one of these that interests you or don't you have any interests? If you don't want to belong to any organization, for some reason, a bunch of friends are usually going to the "Glass" drinking or something. Don't you have friends? Oh yea, there is another activity which I participate in greatly, dating.

I am now looking at the Winter Quarter calendar. I have been home once this quarter. That weekend I missed three basketball games and a dance. Please look at your calendar and tell me why you sit in your room on any weekend.

There are basketball games the entire winter quarter, movies every Sunday and many Saturdays. There was a Beauty Pageant last weekend and Winter Wonderland this weekend.

There are thousands of seminars and the Fine Arts Department usually has some concerts and plays. There have been some campus dances, coffeehouses and dorm activities. I just don't see your point! All of this on campus. I haven't even started on the off campus activities. I will just mention one. There is usually an average of three dances a week off campus somewhere.

I would like to know what you are basing your statement on. "I have learned not to count on any activity this school plans..." All I can think of is the New Riders concert. I am now looking at "The Pacer" front page under "Concert March 9". In the third column, third paragraph it states the reason it was cancelled, to no fault of SGA. I hope you see that is not the school. You will still be in your room no matter what school, because you have apathy. UTM will survive just fine without you, Mr. Mike McManus.

J. W. (Turtle) Harrison
Liberal Arts

Appreciation expressed

To the Editor:

I would like to express my sincere thanks to those students who attended our recent concert featuring Billy Joel. The quality of the performance was exceptional regardless of the poor attendance on the part of the Murry State campus.

I would appreciate some kind of feedback from those who traveled to Murray to witness such a fine talent. Send letters to:

Ed Miller
Freshman Rep.
SGA

Murray State University
Murray, Ky 42071

German ranks high in world

To the Editor:

To the persons wondering about the German books in our UTM library and to those who wonder how strong a language German is today in the world I would like to point out the following facts:

First, every tenth book is published in the German language or translated into it. Second, there are 110 million people speaking German as their mother tongue. This makes German the sixth largest language in the world today. The other five are: Chinese-805 million, English-333, Russian-206, Spanish and Hindi-192 million each. German is the official language in the two parts of Germany (East and West), Austria, Switzerland, Luxembourg, in the western provinces of Belgium and in Southwest Africa.

16 million foreigners learn German today in their country's schools and language institutes, 5 million of whom are in Russia. In Denmark and in the French and Italian parts of Switzerland, German is the obligatory language. In 16 European countries and 19 non-European countries, including Korea, Egypt, Canada, Brazil, Japan, Chile and Australia, German is taught in their high schools.

There are 250 schools overseas where about 100,000 students are taught totally in German. The closest high schools in Tennessee offering German are in Memphis and Nashville. However, Dodson Elementary School close to Nashville offers German in grades three through five in the Foreign Language in Elementary Schools program.

Goetz Seifert
Modern Foreign Language Department

Involvement encouraged

To the Editor:

And Mike McManus and other dissatisfied students crying in the wilderness of non-social life and inadequate activities. Goodbye!

The conclusion of my senior year will also mark the termination of my affairs at UTM. I have tolerated its many disappointments and enjoyed its advantages. I am forced to take on the challenge of a larger university only because I have met the challenge of this "sheltered school."

I could've run from it at the end of my freshman year and there have been times during the past three years I wish I had I didn't, and neither did many others who saw things that needed changing and came out of their rooms to change them. They became active in organizations which are an integral part of this university.

The SGA, fraternities, sororities, IHC, BSA and all

The Pacer, Martin, Tennessee, Thursday, February 27, 1974
The corner room by JOHN HALE

Discipline needed

While sitting in the cafeteria the other day, I overheard a group of students discussing their activities of the previous weekend. As usual for this particular group, their conversation centered on drugs. I listened for about half an hour. Typically, each student laughed about how unbelievably stoned he (or she) had been and they all made fun of each other.

A kind game of one-upmanship evolved, where each tried to prove that he had been the highest or the funniest or had exhibited the strangest behavior while they were messed-up. Since I had heard many similar conversations before, I soon got bored and left.

It was twilight outside. As I strolled the sidewalk, a couple of guys in boots and straight-leg jeans, with caps that proclaimed each to be an M.F. (Massey-Ferguson, or what?) followed about ten feet to my rear.

Their weekend must have included one helluva lot of beer because they were both full of stories about how they had been comode-hugging drunk.

One still couldn't remember how he had made it to bed, the other had drunk an uncountable assortment of beer, bourbon and assorted booze before getting violently ill and passing out.

They, too, started playing one-upmanship, trying to decide who had drunk the most, who had been sicker and which had experienced the worst hangover.

Neither of these incidents would be worth mentioning except for one thing: their normality. It seems that more students are spending more time more drugged than ever before.

You can go anywhere on campus on any day of the week and hear somebody talking (bragging?) about how stoned or drunk they were the night before.

In the dorms, you can always tell when the Martin beer joints close down because the lobby is suddenly invaded by drunks. Drugs, including alcohol, have become an important part of life for too many people.

Aren't you supposed to be here to accomplish something? If you are, is getting blasted tonight going to help?

Too many students are overdoing the drug thing and their grades show it. It's a tragic waste of time, money and especially brain-power.

If you want to spend most of your waking hours intoxicated, school is a waste for you. If you're working for a degree - B.A., B.S. or even MRS. - staying wrecked isn't going to help.

One of the most important things a student must learn at college cannot be taught in class: how to master control of his life. Some people call it discipline (ugh! There's that distasteful word!).

Don't wait to flunk out before you try it. Then it will be too late.

like you actually accomplished something? Forget it because you haven't accomplished a goddamn thing.

So goodbye Mike and friends. I regret your leaving. It's a shame you don't have the guts and maturity to stay. It won't be any different at that larger school. You'll still sit in your room and complain.

You're like any other parasitic organism. You'll enter the body of the university, attach yourself for awhile and eventually be excreted out. No one will know that you were there and no one will care or even know that you left.

Jerry Caruso
Senior, Liberal Arts

School spirit is snowballing

To the Editor:

UTM's spirit was almost at rock bottom before basketball season started just a few months ago. Students carried a negative attitude with them to the ballgames. When conflicting activities came up, the alternative gained attendance and the athletic competition came in second place. The ballgames were not complimented at all. A strong interest just wasn't there.

But, not anymore! Right? School spirit is snowballing. In the past several home games, the Fieldhouse has been filled with yelling, hollering and cheering. For many of the games, the positive support and spirit was a contributing factor in achieving a victory.

The players and coaches have been contributing that extra 10 per cent effort to win and the fans, both students and faculty, have maintained fantastic backing. Everyone can enthusiastically say, "I'm proud to attend a UTM ballgame and proud of the spirit shown there." All of us are really building a peacemaker university.

The very next time you meet an athlete, stop that individual and thank that person for an outstanding job of representing you and your university.

Be sure also to keep the school spirit climbing into Spring Quarter sports and activities and even into next fall for the new coaches.

Go-Pacers-Win!
Don Alexander
Senior
Business Administration

Associated Collegiate Press

Intercollegiate
Press

Tennessee Collegiate Press Association

Rated All-American By The Associated Collegiate Press

THE PACER

The University of Tennessee at Martin
Martin, Tennessee 38238
Phone: (901) 387-7441

RANDY MASHBURN
Editor

JIM KEMP
News Editor
KAREN FRANKLIN
Assistant News Editor
DAVID BYRN
Features Editor
GAIL EIDSON
Sports Editor

PATTELMORE
Copy Editor
JERALD OGG
Special Assignments Editor
RHONDA WELCH
Advertising Manager
RICHARD CHESTEEN
Advisor

The Pacer is published weekly during the academic year at the University of Tennessee at Martin. It is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the Intercollegiate Press and the Tennessee Collegiate Press Association. The Pacer's national advertising representative is the National Educational Advertising Services, Inc.

Letters to the editor must be signed, typed and turned in before 10 a.m. Tuesday. In certain cases, names may be withheld upon request. The editors reserve the right to delete portions which are considered libelous and to shorten letters which are too long. Opinions expressed in The Pacer are not necessarily those of the administration of the University. Columns reflect the views of the individual writer and are not necessarily the editorial viewpoints of this newspaper.

Tenure percentages predicted

By JERALD OGG
Special Assignments Editor
The percentage of UTM tenured faculty members, which now stands at 67 per cent, will reach 83 per cent in 1980, 1981 and 1983 before falling, according to a study completed recently by Dr. Norman Campbell, vice-chancellor for academic affairs and graduate studies.

well as considering an average at five who leave during each year for other reasons. The 83 per cent figure is accurate if the number of faculty remains constant. There would be 65 per cent tenured in year 2000.

Campbell also figured the percentages through 2000 if the faculty increases or decreases. If the faculty decreases at the rate of two per year, including retirements or others who leave, the percentage will be consistently higher, with 95 per cent tenured in 1991 and the average being 87 per cent. The figure would begin to decrease somewhat in 1993, but the percentage in 2000 would still be 86.

If the faculty increases at the rate of two per year, taking into account the variables, the percentage will be lower, with a peak of 76 per cent tenured in 1980 and a figure of only 50 per cent in 2000. Campbell said this is natural because of the continuous influx of new faculty which would be necessary in such a period of growth.

Campbell explained the procedure the university follows in granting an instructor tenure. "If a person's been here six years, we have to make a decision on whether or not to give that person tenure," he explained. "If he stays longer than seven years he is considered tenured by the AAUP (American Association of University Professors), so we try to make a decision one way or the other after about six years. The tenure system is supported by the courts."

Wonder why?

Call 587-7913

Why can't staff members use the resident hall pool? "The resident hall pool is paid for by the resident hall students," Earl Wright, assistant director of housing, said. "During the peak season this would deny the residents the right to use the pool."

There is a possibility of staff using the pool from time to time when it is not in use by the residents," Wright added.

If students in Liberal Arts and other schools have to pre-register with their advisors anyway, why isn't this information utilized by the administration in planning and scheduling various courses so that students aren't confronted with closed and overcrowded courses at registration?

"It is my impression that only about 75-80 per cent of the students pre-register," Dr. Norman Campbell, vice-chancellor for academic affairs, said.

Campbell said only about 65 per cent of the students pre-registered when they tried to use this information in Spring 1973.

Courses are set up on the past history of courses taken and also the information available on advance enrollments, he explained.

Campbell said he didn't really know how big the problem was with courses being closed out, but he didn't believe many courses were closed and that adjustments were made to get students into courses.

Campbell said students may have encountered problems getting into the sections they wanted.

"There are not enough rooms to have all the classes in the choice hours," he added.

Why does the bookstore put higher price stickers over a book's original marked price? "The bookstore does not do this," Jerry Carpenter, bookstore manager, said. "The book comes from the publishers with the stickers over the stickers."

The sticker over the sticker is put on by the publisher to reflect their price increase, Carpenter said.

"The only case this happens in is paperbacks," Carpenter added.

How are the hours when the dorm pool is open determined? "We have a resident hall pool committee that met several times during the fall which worked on determining hours," Earl Wright, assistant director of housing,

Fall theft figures reflect

(Continued from page one)
equipment and valuables you keep in your room. These rooms are easy to get into if not double locked. It's going to take just a little more time to double lock it, but the best lock in the world won't do any good if you don't take time to use it."

Of the total $5,828.20 taken in 1974 campus thefts—from students and University property—a total of $1,492 has been recovered. The amount of recovered property has gone up sharply since Sgt. Steve Jahr took over the detective position, Council said.

"Sgt. Jahr handles a lot of the investigation and follow-up," Council explained. "Many times someone would report something stolen only to learn later that someone had just borrowed it. The complainant would forget to inform Safety and Security the item was recovered and we would report it as lost property, never recovered."

"Now, we have time to follow-up and call to find out if they've recovered the property," he said.

According to Council, Safety and Security will be concentrating their patrols on the outside.

"We'll be doing all we can for preventive patrolling in parking lots," Council said. "We don't have patrol in the dorms. We only go in there when called. With the situation like it is, we'll be concentrating on parking lots and thefts outside."

"We've had thefts reported all over, not just on campus," Council said. "The city, county, Union City and Obion County have all had a large increase in burglaries and theft in general.

"I suppose the increase has had a lot to do with the state of the economy," Council commented. "People are laid off and are more tempted to take things."

'Endeavors' dance set

"The Endeavors" from Nashville will play at the SGA dance beginning at 8 p.m. Saturday night in the University Center Ballroom, according to Keith Franklin, SGA secretary of communications.

One dollar admission will be charged and refreshments will be furnished by A Phi O pledges, Franklin said.

Best New Albums

- ★ ROBIN TROWER
"For Earth Below"
- ★ JOHN LENNON
"Rock & Roll"
- ★ JOHN DENVER
"An Evening with ..."
- ★ TEMPTATIONS
"A Song For You"
- ★ WET WILLIE
"Dixie Rock"

NEW
LED ZEPPELIN ALBUM WILL BE
IN TOMORROW

CHARLES MARKET OPEN

7 DAYS A WEEK
6 TILL 10

NOW WE HAVE CUBED ICE
COMPLETE LINE OF MIXERS

FULTON HWY.

MARTIN

JEWELRY

ONE OF A KIND
JUST FOR U

TYNER'S
DOWNTOWN

Pictures talk. Some little boys don't.

Some inner cities have special schools. For little boys who don't talk.

Not mute little boys. But children so withdrawn so afraid of failure, they cannot make the slightest attempt to do anything at which they might fail.

Some don't talk. Some don't listen. Most don't behave. And all of them don't learn.

One day someone asked us to help.

Kodak responded by working with the teachers. Showed them how, through the language of pictures, the children could communicate as they never could before. And the teachers sent the kids out to take pictures with their cameras.

And then the miracle. Little boys who had never said anything, looked at the pictures and began to talk. They said "This is my house." "This is my dog." "This is where I like to hide." They began to explain, to describe, to communicate. And once the channels of communication had been opened, they began to learn.

What does Kodak stand to gain from this? Well we're showing how our products can help a teacher—and maybe creating a whole new market. And we're also cultivating young customers who will someday buy their own cameras and film. But more than that, we're cultivating alert, educated citizens who will someday be responsible for our society.

After all, our business depends on society. So we care what happens to it.

Kodak.
More than a business

MARTIN

FOODLINER

SIX PACK
BUSCH
BEER

12 OZ CANS

ONLY $1.48

IGA 10 COUNT PKG
HOT DOG BUNS

2 PKGS 88¢

ALL FLAVORS
IGA SODA

28 OZ Non-Returnable 3 FOR 88¢

IGA GRADE A
SMALL
EGGS

2 DOZ 88¢

FRESH
GLAZED DONUTS

DOZEN 88¢

Angel Food Cake
DELICIOUS ONLY $1.18

BANKROLL $400

Strike Force exercises include rappelling walls

By JERRY FLEMING
Pacer Staff Writer
Amid light rain and 20-30 mile per hour winds, 17 people leaped off the EPS building, suspended only by a rope around their waists. UTM's Strike Force chose the 75 foot south wall of EPS—facing Mt. Pelia Lodge—for a lesson in a basic skill of mountaineering, rappelling. Rappelling is the use of a series of ropes to descend the face of a cliff, mountain or other near vertical surfaces.

"It's what you'd call a controlled fall," said Jerry Gunnin, assistant sponsor.

Before the rappelling exercise, the students received a one-hour block of safety instruction from Cadet Lieutenant Bill Brown. The strike force members then ascended EPS and prepared for their "walk" down the wall.

"I looked down once," Barney Black said, "and after that I just held on and walked."

"It's fun and it's a real skill once you've got it," Chris Turk replied when asked why anyone would want to rappel. Several strike force members had prior rappelling experience, but over half of the climbers were "first-timers," strike force sponsor Edward Bevil said.

"I was scared but I'm better now," rookie rappeler Ronald Morgan said. "Besides, I want to be an Airborne qualified Ranger qualified officer in the Army, so I've got to know this."

Going down?

Ron Morgan of UTM's Strike Force discovers a different way down from the upper story of EPS when he joined 17 other people in a rappelling exercise. Suspended by a rope around the waist, the ROTC Strike Force descended the 75-foot fall in this mountaineering exercise.

Vocabulary course slated next quarter

By FRED MAXWELL
Pacer Staff Writer
A new four hour course in medical and scientific vocabulary will be offered next quarter by the English department.

The course, English 3150 Medical and Scientific Vocabulary, was asked for by Harold Smith, dean of the school of agriculture, because many schools of veterinary medicine are requiring incoming students be familiar with medical and scientific language.

"Our students in the pre-veterinary curriculum are required to have a course in medical terminology," Smith said. "Pre-veterinary medicine students were taking this course by correspondence from Auburn, but Auburn has discontinued the course."

The course, which will be taught by James Spears, associate professor of English, will consist of the most common group words, root words, prefixes and suffixes on which the terminology is based. Approximately 2500 medical and/or scientific terms will be studied in the course, which requires a prerequisite of 1130.

"We feel the course is a good idea which will be a real service to us and others on campus," Smith said.

Wording problems cited in 'Genesis' law analysis

The problem with the 1973 "Genesis" law was "unfortunate wording," according to Dr. Charles Ogilvie, associate professor of history, during a forum concerning that law last Thursday night.

The forum consisted of a presentation by Dr. Ogilvie followed by a long question-and-answer session led by Richard Chesteen, assistant professor of political science.

Chesteen said that a major problem with the law is that it requires a disclaimer in the textbooks saying all evolutionary interpretations are theories but does not require a similar disclaimer for the Genesis account.

Ogilvie agreed that he had problems with some of the wording in the bill but felt a law is needed to prevent teachers from attacking a child's religion. He said that presently there is no lawful way to prevent such attacks.

Although the First Amendment guarantees freedom of religion, Ogilvie said since the 1968 Eperson case in Arkansas, protection under the law is invalid for the religious person having a religious motive for asking protection of a religious right.

Meanwhile, he said no limitations have been placed on what teachers can teach. Not even the "Genesis" law does this, he said, because its emphasis is on textbooks.

"All we want is to give a kid an out," he said. "We just want a symbolic act."

At one point, when asked if devotionals could still be held in Tennessee public schools,

Chesteen commented, "There is no doubt in my mind that it is all right in many schools in Tennessee to do this, but it is not constitutional."

Dr. George C. Kao, associate professor of political science, served as the moderator of the forum.

SGA spending explained

(Continued from page one)

reads, "If this year's rating could be maintained, a board with $16,000 could generate attendance of 120,300 people."

"Even if the 1973-74 ratio were to be maintained, 20,000 people would attend the events," The statement continues. "The publicity UTM could receive would be incalculable."

The statement also says the entertainment money could be used for free entertainment for students.

"Applaud the committee's recommendations," the report says. "I believe Congress will have the wisdom to make sound judgements and proper recommendations to University authorities."

"Furthermore, I believe that a poll of the students would show beyond any shadow of a doubt that they desire their monies to fund entertainment," The statement continues. "Given a choice of one of the current uses of their money or one of entertainment of good quality and quantity, the students would overwhelmingly choose entertainment." Faulk said he believed such a poll would show 80 per cent of the students preferring entertainment.

Nance urged the congresspersons to talk to their constituents about the funding situation.

"These funds touch the lives of students everytime they go to a game or pick up a Pacer," Nance said.

Calendar of events

THURSDAY	UT Systems Meeting	2 p.m.	Room 201, 202, University Center
	Christian Science	5:30 p.m.	Room 206, University Center
	Parthenon Banquet	7 p.m.	Sailroom, University Center
	"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"	7:30 p.m.	Fine Arts Auditorium
	Blue Grass Night	8 p.m.	Ellington Hall Blue Room
FRIDAY	THEC	9 a.m.	Room 206, 209 University Center
	Occupational Education	10 a.m.	Room 206, University Center
	Main Department Coffee	2:30 p.m.	Room 201, University Center
	Federal Land Bank Banquet	7 p.m.	Sailroom, University Center
	"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"	7:30 p.m.	Fine Arts Auditorium
	Clement Hall Coffeehouse	8 p.m.	Clement Hall Lobby
SATURDAY	NAA Board of Governors	10 a.m.	Room 206, University Center
	"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"	7:30 p.m.	Fine Arts Auditorium
	SGA Dance	8 p.m.	Sailroom, University Center
SUNDAY	SGA Dance "Heartbreak Kid"	3:49 p.m.	Sailroom, University Center
MONDAY	Marx Brothers Film Festival	7:9 p.m.	Sailroom, University Center
TUESDAY	Head Start	10 a.m.	Room 207, University Center
	Academic Senate	3 p.m.	Room 206, 209 University Center
	CBTE Meeting	1 p.m.	Room 204, University Center
	ISU Musical	6 p.m.	Sailroom, University Center
	InterVarsity	8:30 p.m.	Room 201, 202, University Center
	Christian Fellowship
WEDNESDAY	Superintendent Study	9 a.m.	Room 206, University Center
	TVA	10 a.m.	Sailroom, University Center
	Faculty Women Handicrafts	9:30 a.m.	Room 202, University Center
	Secretaries Club Luncheon	12 Noon	Room 201, University Center
	Freshman Class Dance	8 p.m.	Sailroom, University Center

FELLOWSHIP OF PRESBYTERIANS
310 LOVELACE AVENUE
CHURCH SCHOOL 9:30
SUNDAY WORSHIP 10:30

STUDENT ACTIVITIES COUNSELING
DR. W. H. McFADDEN, MINISTER
587-9718

Mr. A's Barber Shop

Wishes to Announce Two New Services.

We are now cutting women's blow dry hairstyles and styling. We also have the new bodifier chemical that gives you lasting body without waves, curls, rods or rollers. We also specialize in long hair cuts.

364-2296

Dresden

Ears Pierced FREE

with purchase

$12.00 STUDS

Michaelson's Jewelers

UNION CITY

Ellington to sponsor bluegrass

Ellington Hall will sponsor a "Bluegrass Night" from 8-12 p.m. tonight in the dorm's Blue Room.

A five piece band composed of dorm residents will provide the music for the event. The band reportedly will include a fiddle and banjo player.

"It is a country get together with a square dance caller and a group," Susan McPeak, Ellington Hall social chairperson.

According to Ms. McPeak the admission to the event will be 25 cents unless one wears a bandana, overalls, or a country dress. Those wearing a bandana will be charged 10 cents and those wearing overalls or a country dress will be admitted free.

Ms. McPeak said students and faculty are invited and everyone is urged to dress up.

Easter's Early!
Sunday, March 30
Remember friends and relatives with thoughtful Hallmark cards.
Evans Rexall
Hallmark

Bennett's Inc.
The Best In Men's Wear.
Union City, Tenn.

STAR DRY CLEANING CO.
Dry Cleaning - Pressing - Altering

Sansui AU-5500
Integrated Amp.

32 Watts per channel
minimum RMS into 8 ohm
load from 20 hz to
20khz with no more than
0.15% total harmonic
distortion
$299.95
Now Available at
TAYLOR ELECTRONICS
Dresden, Tn.

Loeb's Bar-B-Que
Featuring Bar-B-Qued RIBS
Now open till 1 a.m. every night
587-9984

Court appeal pending

State grants to continue

The United States Supreme Court announced last Tuesday the Tennessee Grant Program can be continued pending appeal of the decision the program is unconstitutional.

"They're going to have the program in one form or another," Bill Fron, director of financial aid, said. "We don't have applications in right now, but we are expecting them at any time. As students file for aid, we're asking them to send their financial statement to Nashville also."

According to Fron, one of the big problems now will be whether or not Governor Ray Blanton will vote for funding of the program.

"The best advice I have is he won't," Fron said. "I've talked to students and urged them to write to their representatives and I plan to attend a financial aid meeting in Nashville next week."

One-fourth of UTM's students will not receive financial aid next year if the TTG program is cancelled, Fron said. UTM could lose up to $400,000, based on if all eligible students apply.

The TTG program has been responsible for awarding $3,667,607 to 5,803 students across the state for the 1974-75 school year.

The controversy over the program arose because the curricula at four Tennessee schools—Lee, Lipscomb, Freed-Hardeman and Bryan College—were challenged as being too religious in nature by the Americans United for the Separation of Church and State. The organization contended it was "repugnant" to the Constitution's religious freedom guarantee in that some of the money ultimately ended up in the hands of colleges operated by churches.

A special three-judge district court in Nashville ruled the plan violated the First Amendment requiring the separation of church and state. They noted that in 1972-73, 84 per cent of the funds disbursed to private colleges went to religiously affiliated colleges and 59 per cent of funds allocated went to religiously affiliated institutions.

For the 1973-74 year, the figures were 86 per cent and 63 per cent.

In their appeal, Tennessee state officials say the district court was wrong in regarding the grants as going to institutions. For administrative convenience, the state each semester, or quarter, sends a single check to a college covering all students at that institution. The appeal continues students must apply individually for the grants and are notified individually of the amount awarded them.

The appeal maintains the district court also failed to apply the three standards devised by the Supreme Court—whether the aid had a secular purpose, what would be its primary effect and whether it involved "excessive entanglement" between church and state.

The state also contends the lower court was wrong in throwing out the entire law when more than 60 per cent of the individual students receiving the grants attend private colleges with no religious ties.

The appeal notes the law has a "severability clause" which required that if the religious character of a college is at issue, the college would be severed from the program and evaluated on an individual basis.

Dr. John Folger, executive director of the Tennessee Higher Education Commission, said funding next year would be a problem, especially since he said he doesn't expect the Supreme Court to make a final decision during their current session. "The original ruling making the tuition grant program unconstitutional raised some fundamental questions about the extent to which religion can pervade an institution's curriculum," Folger said. He added he thinks the program can be reworked to clearly differentiate between secular and non-secular institutions.

Tuning up

Staff photo by Gary Richardson

Over 2000 junior and senior high school band students invaded the UTM campus last Thursday and Friday as they participated in the West Tennessee Solo and Ensemble

Contest. This was the second year UTM hosted the event and all West Tennessee except Shelby County participated.

March 22-28 proclaimed 'Push for St. Jude Week'

By EDDIE FERRELL
Pacer Staff Writer

Governor Ray Blanton signed a proclamation Tuesday naming the week of March 22-28 as "Push for St. Jude Week," as Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity prepares for their fifth annual spring break march to the Memphis children's hospital. Earlier this month, Ed Jones, seventh district congressman, entered a commendation into the Congressional Record for students who perform the push.

"While their contemplatives are off from school enjoying what has become the annual spring vacation, the men of Alpha Phi Omega are walking from their Martin, Tn. campus to Memphis, a distance of 130 miles, pushing a wheelbarrow in which donations for the hospital are collected," the commendation reads.

"Their civic responsibility and humanitarian concern reflects great credit upon the young people of Tennessee and the nation and it should serve as a model for all who see such unselfish giving of time and energy."

A total of $65,000 has been collected for St. Jude in the past four pushes, according to Lee Miller co-chairman of the Push. This year's goal is $18,000.

According to Miller, about 60 per cent of the hospital's annual $5 million budget is raised through projects such as the Teenagers March and special projects such as The Push.

The Push will involve two teams, each with a wheelbarrow, traveling separate routes from Martin to Memphis, Miller said. One group will proceed down Highway 45E to Milan and then down Highway 79 through Humboldt and on to Memphis. The other route will run down Highway 51 to Memphis.

Winter Wonderland turnout very good

By WYNNE WALLIS
Pacer Staff Writer

The turnout for Winter Wonderland Saturday night in the University Center Ballroom was extremely good, according to Pat Holladay, McCord Hall head resident.

Winter Wonderland is the only formal dance on campus and also the only dance where the girl can invite the guy, according to Ms. Holladay. Admission for the dance was $1 per couple and approximately $425 was collected for the Happy House Day Care Center, Ms. Holladay said.

"We raised about the same amount of money as last year," Ms. Holladay stated. "Change," a band from

Festival set

Clement residence hall will sponsor a coffeehouse at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the lobby and a horror film festival beginning at midnight Saturday.

championship with a final score of 29-26.

In a best of three series the Gunners defeated the Fastards 51-54, 40-38 and 44-31 to capture the open basketball tournament.

The Gunners won League I and the Fastards won League II to earn the right to play in the finals. The Pitchforks and the Blues were runners-up in Division I and II.

Fraternity basketball will be held in the Fieldhouse March 3-7 and 10-13.

Registration for the open free throw tournament will be March 11 at 7 p.m. in gym 23 of the Fieldhouse. Competition will begin at 7:15.

Committee discusses language alternatives

The ad-hoc Liberal Arts committee discussed Tuesday ideas of courses to replace the last nine hours of foreign language presently required to receive a Bachelor of Arts degree.

The committee approved a proposal Feb. 18 which would eliminate the third year of foreign language for students seeking a BA degree.

It was stated at the Tuesday meeting the courses considered to replace third year foreign language should have some kind of humanistic orientation.

The ideas discussed by the committee include courses similar to senior seminars and three hour humanistically oriented courses.

Each discipline would choose a three-hour course that would be most beneficial to the student working toward a BA degree. The student would then be able to choose three of these courses from the variety offered.

Each committee member is to approach department chairmen to find out their ideas for courses by next week's meeting.

The final proposal will be recommended to the Liberal Arts Curriculum Committee at their spring meeting, Dr. John Eisterhold, committee chairman, said.

BSU choir to perform

The Baptist Student Union Koinonia Choir will present the musical "Share" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the University Center Ballroom. The musical, written by Cam Floria, will be sponsored by the BSU Freshman Council. Koinonia has performed in New Madrid, Mo. and Fort Pillow penitentiary recently, according to Dennis Rayburn, Council member.

JERRY LAMB
Formerly of Mitchell Style Shop has opened his own shop. He invites all his former customers to come by and visit him.

Jerry Lamb's
Barber & Hair Styling Shop
Located in the old Ford Bldg.
Free Parking 107 Lindell Open From 8 - 5

THEY ARE HERE!

T-SHIRTS AND THE "ALL ROUND" SHOE CAN BE USED FOR ANYTHING

$8.95

HUNT'S ATHLETIC GOODS CO.

BOB WEINER

REVOLUTIONARY TEACHER FROM CALIFORNIA WHO HAS WORKED ON COLLEGE CAMPUSES ACROSS THE COUNTRY

THURSDAY, FEB. 27 - 7:30

AT ST. JOHN'S EPISCOPAL CHAPEL
ACROSS FROM T-ROOM

PRESENTED BY
MARANATHA

*He feeds his flock
like a shepherd, he gathers the lambs in his arms, and carries them close to his heart.*

Isaiah 40:11

ANOTHER GREAT DAIRY QUEEN SALE

10¢ Jack's Twinburger

(No Limit)

2 Delicious Patties of Swift Premium 100% All Beef Hamburger in a freshly baked 3 piece bun — Slice of golden melted American Cheese topped with Jack's Special Twinburger Sauce in a bed of chopped Lettuce.

STUDENTS: LUNCHEON SPECIAL 99¢
LARGE CHEESEBURGER
FRENCH FRIES AND
MEDIUM PEPSI

11 AM - 1 PM MONDAY - FRIDAY
PAY REGULAR PRICE FOR ONE GET
ANOTHER FOR 10¢
THURSDAY & FRIDAY FEB. 27 & 28
COME & SEE US
587-3511 AT HWY 45 MARTIN

Board of Trustees revises 12-month residency rule

The UT Board of Trustees revised the out-of-state residency requirement, which formerly required that a student live in the state 12 months before being eligible for in state tuition, in a meeting last weekend in Nashville.

"It's based more on the ability to prove intent to live in the state for purposes other than education," Chancellor Larry T. McGehee said. "It just gets rid of that 12 month thing."

McGehee said the change would not affect most out-of-state students if they were coming here primarily to go to school.

"I think what they were addressing themselves to is wives with husbands that come to the state to work and the wife wants to continue her education," he said. "In the past even if your husband was transferred here by his company you still had to wait 12 months."

"If they're coming here primarily for education, then it would not affect them," McGehee continued. "But if the parents were transferred for their job or if the person is a military transfer, then this would affect them."

McGehee said the revision was not a major change, but it will make it possible for some students to come to school that previously would have had to pay extra tuition or wait out the first 12 months after they moved.

"I don't think it will liberalize the policy that much but it will help in certain cases," McGehee said.

The Board also approved changing name of the law enforcement program at UTM to criminal justice.

In other action, the Board appointed Charles Smith president for urban and public affairs and interim chancellor of UT-Nashville. Dr. Andy Kozar was appointed to replace Smith as executive assistant to UT-President Dr. Edward J. Boling.

Governor Ray Blanton presided over the meeting and told the Board budgets would be tight in all state institutions.

Freshman dance set

The Freshman class will sponsor a dance featuring the musical group 'Change' from 8-12 p.m. Wednesday in the University Center Ballroom.

Admission to the dance is 75 cents in advance and $1 at the door with tickets available from freshmen class officers Andy Allison, Paul Robles, Kris Robinson and Becky Starr.

Staff photo by Gary Richardson

All thumbs

It was the girls against the gloves when G-H Residence Hall again went into athletic competition Monday night. The men, wearing boxing gloves handicaps, did not quite have the "punch" demonstrated in their fail football win and lost to the women.

Seven master's programs certified by State Board

Seven master's level teacher preparation programs have been certified by the State Board of Education, according to Karl Keefer, dean of the school of education.

The programs certified were four already existing on campus and three new ones. Keefer said the four existing programs are for principals and supervisors in elementary and secondary schools. The three new ones are for reading specialists in elementary and secondary schools and a combination of both.

According to Keefer, the state revised its certification requirements for the existing programs in June 1973. All universities were required to resubmit their programs for certification by the State Board before the new guidelines go into effect September 1975.

"We changed some course offerings, but in some respects it was just a matter of reorganization of existing courses," Keefer said.

The graduate level reading programs will be necessary for student who intend to teach full time in that area, Keefer said.

'Cocoanuts' to end Marx movie series

"Cocoanuts," the last film in the Marx Brothers series, will be presented at 7 and 9 p.m. Monday night.

"We are real pleased with the Marx Brothers series," John Bucy, assistant director of the University Center, said. "They have been the only successful films on campus this quarter, financially."

The plot for "Cocoanuts" concerns a Florida hotel mismanaged by Groucho with some stolen jewels thrown into the pot.

"Cocoanuts," the Brothers' first film, contains intact some of their best stage routines, including Groucho's land auction and the ex-cruciating "Viaduct" dialogue (Chico: "Why a duck?"), Bucy said. Bucy said he would like to have another film series but there is nothing planned at this time.

Contract received for Charlie Daniels

By DAVID ARMSTRONG
Pacer Staff Writer

SGA received a written contract this past week confirming the "Charlie Daniels Band" will play on March 9 in the Fieldhouse, according to Keith Franklin, SGA Secretary of Communications.

It was also learned the "Combinations," a rock group which played at the SGA beer bust Feb. 16, will be the opening act for the concert.

SGA announced last week it had reached a verbal agreement with Sunset Sounds to present Charlie Daniels, a Nashville rock group SGA is responsible for 25 per cent of the financing.

Franklin also said a ticket agreement similar to the one made with Murray State had been arranged with Austin Peay. Austin Peay students will be able to get in the Charlie Daniels concert at the same price as UTM students and in exchange UTM students will be able to get into a "Vince Vance and the Valiants" concert being negotiated by Austin Peay.

The real value of the agreement is not the present concert, Franklin explained.

"We hope we can continue this deal next year if we want to," he said. "Next year they'll have a 8500 seat gym and should be booking top-name groups then."

Government offers summer intern jobs

Students interested in participating in a Federal Summer Intern Program with the Environmental Protection Agency may contact Dr. Ted Mosch in the history and political science department.

The Environmental Protection Agency would particularly like engineering and chemistry students but all will be considered for nomination, Mosch said.

The Federal Summer Intern Program is designed to bring students with proven scholastic ability and demonstrated leadership potential into the Federal Service for the summer, Mosch said. Students selected from among those nominated by colleges and universities will be assigned to summer positions related to their career interests.

Two UTM students have participated in the intern program, Mosch said. Rayburn Chambers worked with the Department of Defense in accounting and Gail Simonton worked for the State Department in French.

Placement news

The Office of Placement and Career Counseling announces the following interviews:

DATE	FIRM	POSITION
March 4	Federal Land Bank	Land Bank Trainee Summer Bank Trainee
March 6	Wal-Mart, Inc.	Retail Management Trainee
March 11	National Life and Accident Insurance Company	Sales

Anyone interested in interviewing with any of the above should contact the Office of Placement and Career Counseling, Room 260, University Center. Appointments should be made at least 24 hours in advance.

Fund distribution

(Continued from page one)
"It would be nice to have one or two more staff members," he said. "We're not griping though, because we understand that these things have to be adjusted over a period of time."

"In fact, we'd rather be understaffed just a little than overstaffed," he continued. "Our morale in the school of business is very fine and it is really easier to manage."

The history and political science department which receives more money than it generates through the THEC formula, can offer the student three major advantages, according to department chairman Dr. Harry Hutson.

"One advantage is it enables us to teach the specialties we should offer as a reasonably large department," he said. "In political science we are still too small to offer fields which should be represented here, though."

Another advantage listed by Hutson was the wide range of ideas offered by a large staff. "With an adequate staff, you have intelligent dialogue with colleagues," he explained. "The exchange of ideas is good and a small staff limits this range."

"A third advantage is the fact that we can keep classes to a moderate size," he continued. "We like to keep our classes to 35 or 40 because we can get to know the students. If our mission is excellence in undergraduate education, I don't see how we can do this by reducing staff."

TOWERING GIFT OFFER!
$8.50 VALUE
FREE With Purchase

Merle Norman presents three complexion care essentials in a Tower of Beauty: The Moisture Emulsion, Make-Up Texturizer and our new Milky Freshener. Right now, the Tower of Beauty is yours, our complimentary gift to you, with this coupon and any $6.00 cosmetic purchase. Now that's the height of beauty (and a beautiful value!).

Only at
MERLE NORMAN COSMETIC STUDIO
226 Lindel Martin

*Offer expires April 30 at while supplies last.

CAPITOL
#85 5741

SUNDAY IN THE COUNTRY
Starring
ERNEST BORGNINE
and
MICHAEL J. POLLARD
Starts today
and
runs thru March 4
RATED R
*****
GONE WITH THE WIND
*****
BEGINS
MARCH 5

Happy's Liquor Store
DOWNTOWN FULTON, KY.

LIQUOR

WINE

BEER

CIGARETTES
FRIENDLY ATMOSPHERE

OPEN 8 - 10 WEEKLY      OPEN 8 - 12 WEEKEND

(Caution: It is unlawful to transport untaxed liquor from Kentucky into Tennessee; also the legal age in Kentucky is 21)

MIKE'S DELI
WE DELIVER
FROM 6 PM TIL MIDNIGHT
CALL 587-2858

1/2 OFF

TEAR OUT THIS COUPON AND BRING IT IN! BUY ONE SANDWICH AND GET THE SECOND ONE WITH THIS COUPON THURS & FRI FEB 27 & 28 ONLY LIMIT 1 TO A CUSTOMER

1/2 OFF

REMEMBER STUDENT DISCOUNT DAY 10% OFF ON MONDAY
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK      WE CATER

Cachet - "as individual as you are"
CACHET SPECIALS

Touch-up-Spray Cologne & Perfume	REG $8.25	$4.25
Cachet Spray Cologne	2 OZ	$2.75
Hand and Body Lotion	REG $4.00	$2.75
ALSO: WindSong Spray Mist		$2.50
Courant Spray Mist		$2.75

C & R PHARMACY
"MAY WE PRICE YOUR NEXT PRESCRIPTION?"

Assist leader

Staff photo by Gary Richardson

Arthur Boykin goes for a shot against Delta State Monday night. The Pacers lost their final game of the season 62-61. Boykin ended his career as the single season and career assist leader. Saturday night the Pacers upset GSC champion Northwestern Louisiana 90-74.

Pacers conclude season with Delta State defeat

Monday night the Pacers closed out their 1974-75 basketball season with a loss to Delta State after an upset victory over Gulf South Conference Champion Northwestern Louisiana Saturday.

Delta sank two free throws with 10 seconds remaining to defeat the Pacers 62-61.

The Pacers led at halftime 31-26 but the Statesmen battled the Pacers throughout the second half. The lead changed hands seven times after the intermission.

Delta took the lead at 52-51 with 6:10 remaining and never trailed until guard Norman Abney hit a driving layup to give the Pacers a 61-60 lead. Abney sank the shot he was charged with offensive margin sending Morgan to the charity line.

Mike Baker took game scoring honors with 18 points. David Belote had 12 and Abney had 10.

Senior guard Arthur Boykin closed out his career with four assists to his career single season and career assist mark.

Saturday night the Pacers upset Gulf South Conference champion Northwestern Louisiana.

The Pacers used a four-guard lineup and tight defense to come from behind for the win 90-74.

Playing with virtually a freshman lineup in the second half the Pacers came from a 51-41 halftime deficit. Freshmen Joe Boddie and Terry Percy sparked the UTM comeback effort.

David Belote gave the Pacers their first lead since the opening minutes of play when he hit a layup with 15:51 left to give UTM a 56-54 advantage. The Pacers went on to open up as much as an 18-point advantage in racing to what Coach Robert Paynter said was "one of the greatest efforts he has ever seen."

"Northwestern has a fine club and we just took the game to them in the second half," Paynter said. "Our defense was superb and we had a super offensive effort."

Percy, a 6-2 guard, grabbed game scoring honors with 21 points. Boddie hit for 18 and Baker, Belote and Boykin tossed in 13 points each for the Pacers.

UTM hit 34 of 78 shots for .436.

The Pacers closed their season with a 14-12 record and a 7-6 GSC mark.

First asst. athletic director aids administrative control

Robert Carroll's appointment as UTM's first assistant athletic director has given better administrative control to the program, according to Athletic Director Robert Paynter.

"The particular services Carroll has already rendered have made this a better operation," Paynter said.

According to Paynter, Carroll's duties are three-fold: fund raising, general public relations and acting for him when Paynter is not available.

"He has already been to two national conferences which I couldn't attend because they were right in the middle of my basketball schedule," Paynter said. "He has also helped us in setting up and carrying out the special appreciation nights held at the games."

Carroll is also responsible for ticket promotion, coordination of travel, housing and food, eligibility reviews, academic counseling and athletic conference relations.

"If I continue to travel as much as I have recently, I will go 50,000 miles a year," he said.

Among other activities Carroll is working on football schedules through 1978. One of the new ideas Carroll is working on is a junior Pacer club. Youngsters through junior high would be involved in the program. Carroll hopes to involve all ages in the UTM athletic program.

"I've talked with major colleges to get new ideas on how their program is run," he said.

Carroll is taking some of the load off Athletic Director Robert Paynter who was

Lady Pacers finish third

MSU takes District title

By GAIL EIDSON
Pacer Sports Editor
Memphis State captured the Western District Tournament here Saturday morning when they defeated Union 80-62.

Union took the runner-up title by defeating the Lady Pacers Saturday afternoon.

Memphis State got out in front of Union early in the game 15-2. It took the remainder of the half for Union to come within seven points 40-33 at intermission. Union shot only 30 per cent in the second half and could not catch up.

In the afternoon Union rebounded from their morning upset GSC champion Northwestern Louisiana 90-74. Union held a 12-point lead at the half but saw it slip to seven midway in the second half.

Betty Volner scored 26 of her 32 points in the second half. UTM used a full court press to force Union into several turnovers in the last five minutes of the game. Six straight points by Sherry Henry put the game out of reach for the Lady Pacers.

Volner hit 50 per cent from the floor and the free throw line for 32 points to lead UTM's scoring. Sharon Brasher had 12 points and Starr Hatler added 11. All three leading scorers had eight rebounds.

Thursday night UTM defeated Dyersburg State 61-30. Brasher led the scoring with 13 points while Volner had 12. Freshman Ann Hamilton added 10.

Friday morning UTM fell to Union 82-37. In the first eight minutes of the second half Union scored 12 points while the Lady Pacers managed only two.

Friday night UTM defeated Jackson State Community College 61-55. The Lady Pacers, playing their third game in 24 hours, managed to maintain control of the game although JSCC made a strong comeback in the second half pulling within six. Brasher led the scoring with 13. Volner had 12 and Hamilton had 10. Brasher had 21 points and 19 rebounds, Glenda Hime had 16 and Volner added 12.

Jackson State defeated Dyersburg for the junior college championship.

UTM, Lambuth and Union, with two selections each, headed the All Tournament team. Volner and Brasher represented UTM. Lout Deaton, Becky Turner, Sherry

Henry and Theresa Hale represented Lambuth and Union Ethel Cook and Terri Galloway from JSCC and Memphis State rounded out the team.

"I was pleased with the tournament," said Coach Nadine Gearin. "I thought we started out poorly but finished with two strong games."

Gearin said she looks for the Lady Pacers to improve upon their 11-14 record next season.

"We should be stronger," she said. "We had a lot of freshmen this year who will be returning with a lot of experience."

The team will not lose any players to graduation, Gearin said. Willa Dickerson, freshman from Union City, was forced to bench for the tournament due to a knee injury. It was thought the injury might require surgery but doctors have given her exercises to strengthen her knee and surgery is now questionable.

Twenty-five games totals show team captain Volner as the leading scorer averaging 14.7 points per game. She is followed by Carol Turner with a 9.8 average. Volner was also the leading free throw shooter on the team, hitting 79 per cent of the time from the charity line. Brasher averaged 65 per cent from the free throw line. Hime was the leading rebounder.

UTM averaged 62.2 points per game while their opponents scored 62.8.

UTM host school for NCAA tourney

UTM will be the host school for the Division II and III golf championships June 8-13.

The tournament featuring 218 golfers will be held at Pickwick State Park ten miles south of Savannah, on the Tennessee River.

State officials have reserved the entire park for the tournament, according to golf coach Grover Page. Page is currently working with assistant athletic director Robert Carroll in coordinating housing for the athletes.

UTM's first All-American Ray Scott is the pro at Pickwick according to Page.

The tournament will consist of 72 holes and will last four days. There will be individual and team competition. With winners in both Division II and III for the first time in the tournament's history. There will also be tournament winners.

The top 10 finishers and ties will qualify for the NCAA Division I tournament the following week.

The only other NCAA championship tournament held in this state were the swimming finals held previously in Knoxville.

The United States is divided into eight districts, UTM is in district III along with schools from Washington D.C. to Florida.

Each district has a selection committee with at least three members. This committee looks at the records of the schools in their district at the end of the season to select the teams best qualified to represent the district. They also select 23 individual players. The National Chairman may select 10 at large players.

VALUABLE COUPON

This Coupon Is Worth $2.00 Off

On ALL

ADIDAS & CONVERSE ATHLETIC SHOES

ACE HARDWARE

224 LINDELL MARTIN

Guys and Gals: We are offering the best hair cut of your life or your money back. If after 10 days of wearing it you don't like it, we'll refund your money or restyle your hair at

Hair Fair
Styling Salon

Across from Ben Franklin

Subaru.
Our extras aren't added on: They're built in.

Subaru's exciting GL Coupe. An open-road performer with all the ruggedness and dependability of a family car.

- Front wheel drive
- Around 25 mpg on regular
- Quadrozontal engine
- Full independent suspension
- Rack and pinion steering
- Front disc brakes
- Radial tires
- Reclining bucket seats
- AM pushbutton radio
- Electric rear defogger
- Tachometer

Subaru

We could sell it on gas mileage alone. But there's so much more. See it and test it at:

AKIN-JACKSON MOTOR CO.
HWY 22E

MARTIN, TENNESSEE

THE "T" ROOM

GOOD FOOD REASONABLE PRICES
FAST, FRIENDLY SERVICE

SGA

IN COOPERATION WITH

LAFAYETTES AND SUNSET SOUNDS

PRESENTS

THE CHARLIE DANIELS BAND

IN CONCERT

SUNDAY

MARCH 9

8 PM

UTM FIELDHOUSE

ADVANCE UTM STUDENT TICKETS . . . . . $3.50

AT THE INFORMATION DESK AND NEXT DOOR

GENERAL ADMISSION TICKETS . . . . . $4.50

IN ADVANCE AT THE INFORMATION DESK, DJ's AND THE COLLEGIATE SHOP

ALL TICKETS $5.50 AT THE DOOR

STRICKLAND'S

223 Lindell St.

MARTIN, TENN.

10% Discount to all UTM Students

on Men's and Ladies shoes,

Fabrics, Books and Bibles

Latest shoe styles to choose from

Thanks for shopping Strickland's

When Low In Spirits Visit

BUCK'S

to Martin

Buck's Drive In
DOWNTOWN FOURTH STREET
FULTON, KY.

(Caution: It is unlawful to transport untaxed liquor from Kentucky into Tennessee; also the legal age in Kentucky is 21)

Alpha Kappa Psi

The winners

Kappa Alpha

G-H Hall

Phi Sig Follies

Before an over-capacity University Center Ballroom crowd; four fraternities, six sororities, two residence halls and one club competed for the title of Phi Sig Folly of the year. Alpha Kappa Psi won the talent review with a rendition of "You've Got Trouble Right Here in River City," with Kappa Alpha's Southern Fried Theatre coming in second. The audience estimated at over 700, sat on chairs, perched on tables and chairbacks, sat on the floor, lined along the walls and stood outside the Ballroom door on tiptoe trying to see the performances inside. The Vaudeville-type routine kept up for about three hours featuring song and dance, skits, jokes and a soap opera. Langdon Unger, associate professor of history, served as master of ceremonies. Over $350 was raised for the Heart Fund.

Staff photos by Ganny Wilson

Chi Omega

Phi Sig Little Sisters

GRADUATING SENIORS:

Last week of rebate

HERE ARE SEVERAL REASONS TO BUY NOW:

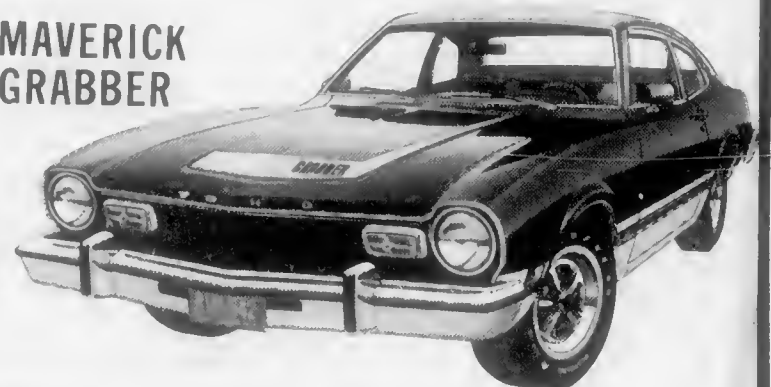

- ★ MAKES "CENTS " TO BUY NOW
- ★ SENIORS TAKE REBATE & MAKE DOWN PAYMENT
- ★ $500 TO MAKE DOWN PAYMENT /MAKE FIRST PAYMENT
- ★ 36 MONTHS OR 42 MONTHS FINANCING
- ★ STAYS OPEN TO 8 PM FOR CONVENIENCE
- ★ NATIONWIDE FORD SPONSORED REBATE PROGRAM

PINTO
RUNABOUT

$200
REBATE

MAVERICK
GRABBER

$200
REBATE

MUSTANG II — MACH I
$500
REBATE

CONTACT LARRY ALEXANDER (587-3141) AT

WEAKLEY CO. MOTORS